CARPENTER STILL IN JAIL.

(Special to REPUBLICAN.)

LINCOLN, ILL., Nov. 2.—1:30 p. m.—

O. A. Carpenter will have a preliminary hearing to-morrow (Saturday) at 10 a. m.

before a justice, but he will not be released without a light on the part of the prosecution. It was announced to-day that Mrs. Wm. Dukes, who was brought here from Dakota, and didn't testify before the coroner's jury, will tell her story at the examination to-morrow. It is believed that Carpenter will be discharged. Talk against him is dying out, though he is not yet released, and will remain in custody until he is released, it is at all, of the court. Few newspaper reporters are here now—nearly all gone home.

Comment on the Verdict.

The Lincoln Journal of last evening printed the following remarks about the Zura Burns investigation and its result:

"The coroner's jury, when it is preliminary by Saturday when it is through Mr. Carpenter will be released.

If a coroner's jury cannot tell who cut Zura Burns' throat, it is absurd to think a justice of the peace can. The jury think that there is stronger and more material evidence, but there is not.

The Chicago chemist said there was no blood on the lines, no one saw Carpenter with the girl on the night she was married. A coroner's jury couldn't fasten the crime on him and in view of all this what can a justice of the peace do? The claims of the prosecution are that they have dangerous evidence in the back-wood. If this be true, they would have shown it to the coroner's jury.

It is a pity that the coroner's jury did not go to the back-wood to see if there was any evidence there. To sum up the matter, we are willing to believe that the little girl has been done by the long investigation.

Damaging Runaway.

A frightful spin of mules attached to Nowell Bros. new delivery wagon occasioned some excitement on South Broadway last evening at about 5 o'clock. The driver was Tom Penwell and with him was Charles Nowell. The mules plunged about and became unmanageable. They knocked over the wagon with its contents of groceries, and threw both Penwell and Nowell out upon the ground. Both were bruised and they are "stove up" to-day.

The damage to the wagon is about $30, and $10 will cover the repair of the harness.

The Biggest Boor.

A boor that looks "on all for size and weight" was brought to the Lincoln sanatorium last evening. It was grown upon the farm of Squire John N. Fuller, two miles out of Decatur. The weight of the boor in the best line is 117 pounds, and the shape of it is like into a stick of cordwood, not a stick of wood. If anybody can beat Squire Fuller's boor, let him come to the front.

"J. N." weighs the people of Decatur praise and not himself. He lifts the weight on the 20th, at the court-house. "J. N."

thus says: "I have often postponed my appointments from time to time in Decatur.

I did this to equalize the weight on all sides. Announce me for the 20th, and I think the people will be ready to assemble by that time. Praise the people of Decatur for their kindness and sympathy, and not me at any time."

Brother Against Brother.

John and Daniel Carroll, two brothers and a quarrel in the Carroll saloon, on Front street, last evening at about seven o'clock, which ended in Dan pulling out a revolver and firing it at John. The

The Ladies of the First M. E. Church.

(Special to REPUBLICAN.)

The ladies of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Mrs. R. N. Baker and Mrs. W. E. Hubbard, are in charge of the two nights' fair and festival in progress at the tabernacle. The enterprise opened last evening with a large attendance of friends, who found the large building quite comfortable, brilliantly lighted and handsomely decorated with Japanese paper and figures and autumn leaves. W. E. Hubbard had charge of the door, Rev. Dimmitt and the brethren welcomed strangers and E. S. Roe sold the refreshment tickets. At the oyster tables were stationed Mrs. G. M. Wood,

Mrs. J. W. Ham, Mrs. C. A. Conklin, Mrs.

H. B. Montgomery, Mrs. W. H. Addis

Mrs. W. A. Brodson and a number of young ladies, and refreshments, embracing ice-cream, cake, etc., were served by Mrs. J. R. Kinney, Mrs. H. W. Waggoner,

Mrs. I. A. Buckingham, Mrs. M. Johnson and Mrs. John Armstrong. At the candy table were Mrs. George W. Bright, Mrs.

John C. Mark and Mrs. Frank W. Imboden, and flowers were sold by Miss Bertha Barwell and others. The fancy work table, which was filled with beautiful articles of needlework, was in charge of Mrs. John A. Swearingen, Mrs.

J. M. Stookey and Miss Helen Moore.

The Japanese bower in the east end of the room was one of the chief places of interest. It was in charge of four blooming misses just over from Tokio. They are here to sell imported Jap. tapestry and saucers at 25 cents a pair, and those wishing to buy can also receive a chromo in the shape of two swallows of hot tea, should call to-night. You will be received by the Misses Florence Adams,

Allie Bowers, Mame Freeman and Ada

Boyd, who appear in the loose costumes of the Japanese ladies with the old ornaments for the head.

A BIG DINNER.

"The ladies served a public dinner at the tabernacle to-day, and it was "just splendid"—everything fresh, warm, nice and palatable. Scores of people, whole families, partook of the feast.

Charged with Stealing.

Mrs. Frank Hostetter, living somewhere in the first ward, claims to have had $35 in cash stolen from her this morning at one o'clock, and she charges Charles and William Vowel and D. Eppler with the crime. She appeared in Justice Curtis's court today and swore out a state warrant for the arrest of the parties named.

The Lincolns.

They will be here with their great appliance company "Shinco" on Nov. 8th.

Said an exchange:

"The Lincolns have drawn full houses from the first night at Macanley's Theatre and made a decided success with their delightful "La Vie en Rose." No engagement at any theatre this season has given such satisfaction. The Lincolns are agile and comical and their action kept the audience in continued laughter. It was the best of its kind and deserved success.

A Decatur Man Arrested.

We have received from a friend a copy of the Winfield Courier, published in Cowley county, Kansas, which contains a full account of the county fair held near Winfield, in October. Glancing over the columns of comments we notice the following mention of the capture of a former Decaturite, well-known to many of our people. Speaking of his display the Courier says:

"Among the most successful exhibitors in the horse department was Mr. Leonard Short, of Minneapolis. He made six entries

WEDDING BELLS AT STAPP'S CHAPEL LAST EVENING.

(Special to REPUBLICAN.)

The marriage of Miss Jeannette Bowers, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bowers, and Mr. Harry H. Oren, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Oren, was solemnized last evening at Stapp's Chapel, in the presence of a large company of invited friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Webster, of Springfield, assisted by Rev. W. H. Webster, the pastor. The interior of the church was most beautifully decorated for the wedding occasion, particularly about the altar, where were arranged a profusion of growing plants, ferns and palms.

Directly in front of the altar was an evergreen arch prettily decorated with a white dove and flowers. Half way down the center aisle were small statues of overgreen fastened with ribbons. The Opera Orchestra played Mendelssohn's grand wedding march, which ushered in the bride party, preceded by the little cousin of the bride, Corinne Shellbarger and Edgar Shellbarger, who opened the aisle gates. Next came the groomsmen.

Mr. Paikie Hammer, and the bride-maid, Miss Frances Shellbarger, followed by the attendants, Mr. Clarence R.

Paul, of Springfield, and Miss Belle Ewing, Mr. Byron Barrett and Miss Lila

Jones, Mr. Jerome Anderson and Miss

Grace Boyd, of Springfield, Mr. Samuel

B. Winholz, of Chicago, and Miss Ella

Eppler, of Jacksonville, Mr. Wm. S. Grubbs and Miss Adele Shellbarger, and lastly came the bride and groom, who, after they were made husband and wife, preceded the bridal procession on leaving the church.
